The Automobile is a Tricycle of great strength, built to safely stand the speed of thirty-five miles an hour, which it can attain. The fuel is gasoline, fired drop by drop by sparks from the dry battery near the front of the Tricycle. The rider has perfect control of the Wheel—no matter how high the speed, and it climbs ordinary hills without difficulty. The Automobile is a marvel of Little Joseph Tauer, Who Ran Shoestring Pedler, Crazed by Papers. President of the U.S.

In the big apartment house at No. 1550
First avenue, where Nellie Lyons lives, there is a sort of sub-cellar where refuse of all kinds is thrown by the tenants. It is small, and fit for rats and mice only. There are dry-goods boxes, pieces of rags and a little straw in this cellar, and a payor decreasing dampness.

For two years George Gibson had sold shoestrings in the Grand Central Station on Forty-second street. He was thirty years old when he came to New York from a small country town, and was robust.
